

Capability Statement

March 2024

Executive Summary

Mobile Camps Australia has been operating for 13 years, servicing clients throughout Australia including multiple tier one mining and government organisations. Developed by Young's Earthmoving and Karijini Civil & Mining, Mobile Camps Australia (MCA) began as an efficient and cost-effective accommodation solution for remote construction, mining and exploration projects. MCA is now owned by the operators of Fox Modular and Karijini Civil & Mining, and over time, available site solutions have been broadened to meet a range of mobile accommodation needs.

Personnel

Nick Berry, Director

Nick has extensive experience in the building and construction industry in Australia and the United Kingdom, working across residential and commercial construction. Nick's easy-going manner allows him to connect with employees as well as customers. His attention to all aspects of both businesses assures that every order will result in a seamless transition from design to production to installation. Nick's entrepreneurial mind has pushed the business from strength to strength by pushing the limits and boundaries of what a transportable home can be.

Rodney Young, Director

Rodney has extensive experience in the exploration and civil earthmoving industry. For over 30 years, Rodney's hands-on approach helped develop Young's Earthmoving into the respected company that it is today. He plans to do the same for Karijini Civil & Mining. Rodney's local knowledge and management expertise are a valuable addition to any civil and mining project in Western Australian.

Company Overview

Mobile Camps Australia (MCA) began as an efficient and cost-effective accommodation solution for remote construction, mining and exploration projects. MCA prides itself on exceeding client expectations in the resources industry; however, these days its services and site solutions have been broadened to meet a range of mobile accommodation needs.

MCA can provide all of the following and more:

- Oil & gas site accommodation
- Mining industry accommodation
- Government department temporary housing
- Additional rooms for construction camps
- Emergency relief accommodation
- Mobile exploration camps
- Rail and road construction mobile camps
- Pipeline projects
- Remote area camps

MCA's unique mobile camp sites are much more cost-effective than other solutions, without compromising on the quality and comfort of the accommodation. The main aim is to provide quality mobile site accommodation and facilities that match clients' needs. MCA offers a range of rental options and can tailor our services to accommodate client needs.

MCA has provided site solutions for Rio Tinto Group, Bogoda Gold, Crushing Services International, JSW Australia, Buru Energy, FMG and the Shire of Ashburton. Be it oil and gas, exploration or drilling, MCA has a rental solution. MCA understands the remote accommodation needs of resource companies – wherever that may be.
